

Why join the PSEU?

Workplace Representation

First and foremost, the most important value of PSEU Union membership is that you gain a voice in the issues that affect you in the workplace, and are consulted on such issues. The Union keeps members updated through circulars, union publications, and through our website www.pseu.ie and twitter feed @PseuTradeUnion.

Union members have access to a wealth of advice regarding pay and conditions, and personal representation in times of difficulty. In addition to this, membership of the PSEU confers rights of participation in a huge range of benefit schemes, a number of which are funded directly by the Union through membership subscriptions.

Financial Services

The Union has negotiated a range of hugely beneficial financial schemes for its members. These include:

Income Continuance Plan: The Income Continuance Plan is designed to ensure that members who find themselves unable to work due to long term illness, are provided for with adequate income. The importance of this scheme cannot be over emphasised. For more information visit www.lfs.ie/pseu-public-service-executive-union

Additional Voluntary Contributions (AVC's): Members, who join the Civil Service at a later stage may not be in a position to work a full 40 years and thereby acquire full pension rights. Members who find themselves in this position can avail of the Additional Voluntary Contributions scheme. This scheme allows members in such situations to 'buy' additional service. The AVC plan is designed to help you make up a shortfall in benefits, or to retire early. For more information contact Lyons Financial Services on 01 8015808.

Death in Service Benefit: Members of the Civil Service Pension Schemes are covered for a tax-free lump sum death-in-service benefit, of once to twice their salary, depending on date of commencement of employment. This benefit is paid to the estate and ceases on retirement. The Union has negotiated a Group Scheme to supplement this benefit, providing a death-in-service benefit to Union members at a significantly reduced cost. To find out more please contact Lyons Financial Services on 01 8015808 or email avc@lfs.ie.
